Wesleyan Alumnae.

Commencement, 1932

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY REUNION CLASS

The class of 1882, with Laura (Jones) Damour as secretary, won the Reunion Cup this year. Mrs. Damour is holding the cup. She wears an ashes-of-roses taffeta which belonged to her husband's mother, and which she presented at Commencement to Wesleyan's collection, together with a white satin dress that was also her mother-in-law's.

The Historical Collection

The collecting of valuable historical material about the college and the early education of women is one of the important aims of the Alumnae Association.

Memories of more than 100 years were recalled Friday when the alumnae came to a party given in the Wesleyan parlors in the dresses worn by their mothers, grandmothers, and great grandmothers at Wesleyan in the long ago.

Dainty old silks with their tight waists and billowing skirts (most of the wearers had to put in bits of lace or ribbon to make the costumes meet around, for the wasp waist is no more), rustling taffetas made in the "pin-back" style which Dr. Pierce denounced so heartily when it was in the height of fashion, cashmeres and brocades and organdies with rows and rows of hand-sewn tucks and lace frills—all were seen at the Wesleyan Party Friday.

Lucia (Chappell) Domingos and Emily Lawton opened the program with an old-fashioned piano duet, Grand Medley, reminiscent of the days when Professor Guttenberger was at Wesleyan. The program also included a piano number. The Banjo, by Stella (Hunt) King, which was played on a Commencement program in 1842; the reading of Minnie (Bass) Burden's salutatory essay by her daughter, Alice (Burden) Domingos; and two songs by Mary Wes Craig of New York.

Dorothy (Blount) Lamar made the speech presenting the oil portrait of Dr. W. F. Quillian, former president, to Wesleyan.

Dr. D. R. Anderson spoke to the alumnae on Wesleyan's historical collection, saying that it was his hope that Wesleyan would be the source for the best material on Georgia history, on the history of early education in the South, and on the early days of Wesleyan.

The exhibition of the historical material already in the possession of the college made an appropriate setting for the party. Old diplomas hung on the walls, old programs, annual, badges, essays, and photographs brought back thronging memories of other days.

An old piano, bought the year Wesleyan was chartered for one of the earliest students, and presented to the college by her grand-daughter, Mrs. Josiah Gates of Florida, stood in one of the parlors, and the contents of an old chest of long-cherished possessions, also given by Mrs. Gates, were exhibited in the room.

Besides many interesting things which were loaned for the historical exhibit, a number were given to the collection. Among these were:

Two lovely old dresses by Laura (Jones) Damour, a member of the Golden Anniversary reunion class, one a white satin dress, the wedding dress of her husband's mother, and the other an ashes of roses taffeta which also belonged to her mother-in-law.

The diploma of Catherine Freeman, 1845, by her great niece, Eunice T. Whitehead, A.B. '94, and a catalog for 1866-67 in which Eunice Whitehead's mother, Eunice Thompson, is mentioned as a sophomore.

Minutes of the Atlanta Alumnae Association when Ida (Price) Truitt was president in the early 1900's, and a number of old programs and clippings, by Lucy (Evans) Stephens, A.B. '98.

A newspaper account of the exercises of Commencement in 1878, a photograph of Minnie (Gresham) Machen, the diploma of Catherine McKay, 1879, and a copy of the "Wesleyan Grand March" composed by F. A. Guttenberger and dedicated to George I. Seney, benefactor, and two pictures of the class of '78 at their reunions. These were gifts from Mary McKay, M.D., class of '78.

Pictures of the Philomathean and Adelphian societies in 1882, given by Julia (Cobb) McEvoy, A.B. '82.

Pictures of Mamie (Willis) Battle, A.B. '82, and of Dr. Cosby Smith, given to Mary (Jones) Anderson, '82, as graduation presents and presented by her to the collection, with an invitation to a Philomathean entertainment in 1881.

Newspaper clipping given Dr. Bass's Commencement address in 1887, presented by Virginia Sloan, A.B. '87.

Report of Blanche Taylor, March, 1872, given by Irma (Clark) Newton, A.B. '19.

Photograph of the class of 1893, presented by Linda (McKinney) Anderson, A.B. '93.

Catalog of 1882-'83, old magazines and books, by Julia Goodall, A.B. '94.

Interesting old program from Genia Ellis, '97.

Photograph of the Philomathean Society in 1902, presented by Anne (Shaw) Richardson, A.B. '05.

Photograph of the members of the class of 1870 with the faculty, presented by Mary E. Macon, A.B. '70.

Manuscript of one of his books from Harry Stillwell Edwards, Georgia author and honorary member of the class of 1876.

Graduation

In the class of '32 who received diplomas on May 30, were 67 students representing eight states, and one French girl, Genevieve Marie-Louise Vasset of Paris.

A new and impressive feature of the exercises this year was the hooding of the seniors by their sophomore sisters. The sophomores entered with the seniors in the academic procession, carrying the hoods on their arms and making a striking contrast in their white dresses with seniors in somber black. After the literary address, Dr. Anderson conferred upon them the degree of Bachelor of Arts, "with all the rights, privileges, and immunities appertaining thereto," and at the same moment the sophomores placed the hoods over the heads of the seniors. So beautiful was the ceremony that it was decided to make it an annual custom.

Magna Cum Laude and Cum Laude

Six members of the class received the honor of Magna cum Laude, Mary Felton of Montezuma; Mary Harley of St. George, S. C.; Katherine Hillhouse, of Waynesboro; Fannie McGeehee, of Macon; Fern Morris of Atlanta; and Celia Sharp of Macon.

Eight others received the Cum Laude: Russell Brinson of Dublin; Dixie Jones of Ft. Gaines; Frances Knott of Atlanta; Malene Lee of Memphis, Tenn.; Doris Newsome of Reynolds; Dorothy Quillian of Milledgeville; Virginia Townsend of Webb, Miss., and Blanche Wannamaker of Cheraw, S. C.

Phi Delta Phi

The six students who received Magna cum Laude were elected to membership in the Phi Delta Phi Honorary Society, which is the highest scholastic honor Wesleyan bestows. An initiation meeting was held to introduce the new members on May 27, with the Hon. O. A. Park, trustee of Wesleyan and prominent attorney of Georgia, delivering a stirring message on "Georgia's Governmental System."

Odille Dasher, A.B. '30, president of the Phi Delta Phi, made the welcome address.

Commencement Exercises

The two commencement addresses of 1932, that of Dr. Gilbert Theodore Rowe of Duke University on Sunday and of Dr. William David Hooper of the University of Georgia on Monday, were pronounced by the audiences to be among the most scholarly and delightful ever heard in Macon.

Mary Wes Craig of New York was on the program Sunday, singing Bizet's Song of the High Priestess. Mrs. Glenn Priest Maerz played a violin solo, Weinawski's Romance from Second Concerto.

At the graduation exercises Monday Miss Eunice Harper sang the aria, Ah, Mon Fils, from Le Phophte.

Conservatory Graduation

At Wesleyan Conservatory, five girls received the degree Bachelor of Music in piano, one in violin and one in pipe organ.

Nine students received diplomas in piano, violin, organ, and voice, and nineteen received certificates.

Mr. Maerz, director of the Conservatory, announced the scholarship awarded. The highest scholarship average scholarship went to Gladys Leavitt, Marjorie Mitchell, and Elizabeth McNutt, who tied. The scholarship entitles them to a year's post graduate work at the conservatory.

The piano scholarship was awarded to John Lewis, a blind young man.

The art scholarship was divided between Erma McCurdy and Evelyn Cates.

Admiral Benson Dies

Admiral William S. Benson, distinguished son of Wesleyan's first graduate, Catherine E. (Brewer) Benson, died suddenly of cerebral hemorrhage May 21, and was buried in Arlington National cemetery with military honors May 23.

Naval attaches of all foreign embassies attended. The pallbearers were headed by Admiral William V. Pratt, present chief of operations and Benson's assistant during the World War, and Major General Ben H. Fuller, marine corps commandant.

A graduate of the United States Naval Academy in 1877, Admiral Benson became nationally and internationally famous as ranking admiral during the World War, as a member of the committee appointed by President Wilson to confer with the Allied Powers in Europe in 1917, as naval representative in drawing up terms of the Armistice with Germany and the Central Powers, and as naval advisor to the American Committee to negotiate peace.

In memory of his mother, he presented to Wesleyan in 1929 a handsome copy of Raphael's Madonna of the Chair which hangs above the mantle in the Grand Parlor.

At the annual business meeting of the Alumnae Association in May, a message of sympathy was sent to the family of Admiral Benson from the college and her alumnae.

Admiral Benson's sister, Gertrude (Benson) Arnall, is a graduate of the class of 1881.

Alumnae Meeting

The three major projects of the Alumnae Association for this year were discussed at the annual business meeting on Saturday: the historical collection, the relation of Wesleyan and the high schools, and the beautifying of Wesleyan's campus.

Alleen (Poer) Hinton, president, called the meeting to order. The reunion classes, each in an original and interesting way, introduced themselves to the audience. Lillian (Roberts) Solomon, secretary of '76, introduced most of her class of 36 members, if not personally, at least "by proxy" through a daughter, granddaughter, or niece.

The class of 1882, with three "Jones" members present, won the Reunion Class Cup. Gussie (Jones) Winn sang a song which she sang 52 years ago as a sophomore, and was accompanied on the piano by her sophomore granddaughter, Rietta Bailey. Laura (Jones) Damour, class secretary, presented a check for $57.00 from the class to the Loyalty Fund. Mary (Jones) Anderson came from Talladega, Ala., to be with her classmates for the occasion.

The class of 1913, with Elizabeth (Baker) Taylor as secretary, had ten members present. The class of 1914, with Kathleen (Holder) Griffin as secretary, also had a large delegation. Gladys Sheppard of Elberton told of ways in which this class was "first." They were the first class, she said, to take their senior sisters to the Dempsey Hotel for the sophomore-senior banquet. Before that date this important event had taken place in the Grand Parlor, and great was the consternation of the teachers when '14 insisted on taking their seniors into the wild night life of downtown Macon for a banquet.

The class of '12, claimed for her class the distinction of instituting the Student Government Association, saying that Alleen (Poer) Hinton, National Alumnae President, was one of the group who worked on its organization and secured the consent of the faculty.

Secondary School Relations

Martha Cooper, A.B. '31, Wesleyan's field representative to the high schools, was introduced to the alumnae. She spoke to them about the importance of alumnae interest and co-operation in interesting high school girls in Wesleyan.

"There is no individual or group," she said,

"which can possibly do as much as the Wesleyan alumnae can in this. Talk to the high school girls personally; invite them to your club meetings or entertain them; arrange for a college representative to see them; send their names to Wesleyan for catalogs; if possible, bring them to the college to see it for themselves."

Other Business

The resignation of Anne (Tripp) Rambo as vice-president in charge of clubs was read and accepted. Kathleen (Holder) Griffin of Atlanta was elected to fill her term of office.

Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham, newly elected Alumnae Trustee, was introduced to the alumnae and received enthusiastic applause.

Portrait of Dr. Quillian

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan, a handsome oil portrait of Dr. W. F. Quillian, former president, was presented to the college through the generosity of the Board of Trustees and of the artist, Helena Eastman (Ogden) Campbell, '97.

Mrs. Campbell has won national recognition in the field of portraiture. She has painted portraits of numerous leaders in education and in the church.

Dr. Samuel Candler Dobbs of Atlanta, trustee, made the speech of presentation to the Board. He said:

At this juncture, there devolves upon me a most pleasant duty.

Twelve years ago, Dr. Wm. F. Quillian was called to the Presidency of Wesleyan College; and for ten years, he literally poured out his very life's blood upon her altars—never at any time considering himself, his comfort or his health; always placing his obligations to Wesleyan above every other consideration.

Under his administration, the faculty and student body was more than doubled. During the ten years of his service, plant equipment of Wesleyan College grew from $500,000.00 to approximately two and a half millions. The College was moved from its old location down town to its present campus of 172 acres, with twelve magnificent buildings, forming one of the most attractive college campuses in Southern Methodism. Under Dr. Quillian's administration, Wesleyan advanced steadily in curriculum and is today approved by the American Association of Universities, the highest standardizing agency in the educational world.

It was his faith and vision, more than any other one thing, which made Greater Wesleyan possible. This quite, soft-voiced, Christian gentleman undertook a great task; and Alumnae of the College has been drawn into an active, working unit that is eternally busy in behalf of their College. The richest possession that any educational institution can have is an alert, loyal and aggressive Alumnae.

And to one of Wesleyan's outstanding graduates is due the credit for this splendid portrait of Wesleyan's former President, which it is my very great pleasure and privilege to present this evening to the Board of Trustees of this honored old Institution. This was first conceived in the mind of Edith Stetson Coleman, an untiring and indefatigable worker for all that concerns the development and welfare of Wesleyan—not only as an Alumna of the Institution, but as one of its Trustees. An ardent admirer of Dr. Quillian and a devoted daughter of this Institution, she conceived the idea of placing in its halls this portrait. Through her untiring efforts, I am able, as her representative, to present this splendid work of art to her beloved Alma Mater, to be placed upon its walls—a constant reminder to coming generations of the great love that she has for Wesleyan and for the unmatched and priceless services of the original of the portrait.

This splendid piece of portraiture is the work of Helena Ogden Campbell, born in Eastman, Georgia, a little city named for her maternal grandfather. A Wesleyan girl, and with an interest far beyond that of merely producing a portrait, she undertook this commission; and with a keen artistry, plus an affection for her Alma Mater and a great admiration for the subject of the portrait, she has achieved well. Mrs. Campbell is an artist of wide reputation, and this splendid portrait is a most fitting addition to your rapidly growing collection of paintings. It will serve as a reminder throughout the future years of the great, sacrificial services of Dr. Quillian, of the devotion of Mrs. Coleman, and the honor and credit of its creator.

A Message From The President

Dear Alumna:

I want to tell you that I think we had here at Wesleyan last year one of the very best school sessions I have ever, in a somewhat extended experience, had the pleasure of experiencing.

The spirit of our teachers and officers, and of our girls, was all that could be desired, and the quality of work done was of the best. In all this we were helped immensely by the wonderful interest of you alumnae of whom, as your new president—if I am to be considered NEW any more—I am very proud.

We are looking forward with every confidence to a great year next session, and that despite what you all know well enough about our financial problems. Everything is going to be done by teachers and officers to give the highest quality of work, unexcelled by none, and the depression is not going to prevent it. Let's go ahead with the greatest consecration and work out our financial situation, meanwhile proud of our fine old college as something unique and spiritually very noble.

The good people who have sustained Wesleyan, who intend to stand by her, who patronize her—all the people who form her constituency have here something so unspeakably fine, that, despite hard times, we cannot fail to TELL THE WORLD ABOUT IT.

I know the alumnae are going to continue their very helpful work of turning good students to Wesleyan, in the knowledge that you help not only the college but the girls whom you induce to come here. FIREPROOF buildings, modern, comfortable; ample facilities for recreation and physical development; a well trained faculty of cultured Christian men and women; a student body representing the best homes in Georgia and the South; high ideals of womanly character and life; wholesome, social, moral, and religious conditions; an unusually friendly and kind as well as democratic attitude in the college; the mellow influence of age and tradition and assured culture and service united with a progressive attitude toward the education that will fit our girls for the life that now is and the life of the coming years, these things are not found so fully in many places.

I am very grateful for all your courtesies to me during the year. I wish I were a dozen men so that I could do all the things that are in my heart to do with you for our beautiful college. I am going to continue to give you my best in service and unstinted consecration and I have undiminished confidence in the success of Wesleyan and in the accomplishment of our aim of developing here one of the outstanding woman's colleges of the country. It will take time—we will have to keep up our courage in this difficult period. But we are going on, doing better work all the time, upholding our ideals, keeping up the flag of high quality, and inviting the best girls of the South, and other sections of the country, to come here, as we have something distinctive and spiritually beautiful to offer them.

Very cordially yours,

DICE R. ANDERSON.

The Wesleyan Campus

The plans for beautifying Wesleyan's campus, which have been uppermost in the minds of the alumnae this year, were discussed Commencement, and Dr. T. H. McHatton, of the State College of Agriculture, presented a planting plan which the department of landscape architecture, under his supervision, has worked out for Wesleyan.

Dr. McHatton has spent much of the past year on these plans, making special trips with his students to study the campus, and the alumnae caught something of his enthusiasm and interest as he offered the plans, "from the first class in the South to receive a degree in landscape architecture to the first college for women."

Dr. McHatton commented on the appropriate Georgian style of architecture of Wesleyan's buildings. "Keep that true Southern note," he said, "in your trees and shrubs. Plant magnolias, tea olive, box, liveoaks. There is nothing in all nature more beautiful than our Southern plants, and nothing more fitting for a college with Wesleyan's atmosphere and traditions."

The plans which Dr. McHatton submitted will be a guide for years to come. When individuals or classes or alumnae clubs wish to add a tree or a shrub to the campus, it will be placed in accordance with this plan which was made with a thought for the years to come and the harmonious whole. The Phi Mu sorority presented a magnolia this spring and it was placed, according to Dr. McHat-ton's plans, near the porch of the dining room. Some day a similar magnolia of the same size will be placed at the opposite end of the porch. Thus gradually, through a period of years, the campus will be transformed into a spot of great beauty and Southern atmosphere.

Following Dr. McHatton's speech, the reunion classes planted around the building ivy secured from many historic spots. Octavia (Burden) Stewart, chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, was in charge of the exercises.

Minnie (Bass) Burden, A.B. '76, planted ivy from Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington, at the right of the entrance to Tate Hall. The fiftieth year reunion class planted ivy from the old Wesleyan chapel at the doorway of the gymnasium. Ivy from the birthplace of Sidney Lanier was planted by Dorothy (Blount) Lamar; from Little Trianon, the home of Marie Antoinette by Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham; from Abbotsford by Agnes Barden, all of these around the library building. In the court between the dormitory buildings ivy from Westminster Abbey was planted by Cornelia (Adams) Heath.

Since Commencement Mr. M. M. Weaver, brother of Maria (Weaver) Burks, beloved teacher of Wesleyan and father of Anna Weaver of the class of '26, gave some ivy from the grave of Longfellow. This is planted in the court near the practice rooms.

New Trustees

Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham, A.B. '75, was elected Alumnae Trustee, succeeding Linda (McKinney) Anderson, A.B. '93, whose three-year term expired this year.

Linda (McKinney) Anderson was elected to fill the place of Margie Burks, A.B. '05, who sent in her resignation at the Commencement meeting of the Board.

Dr. Bascom Anthony, for 28 years a member of the Board, resigned. His son, Rev. Mack Anthony, was elected to fill his place.

Rev. W. F. Smith of Quitman resigned after 14 years of service, and Dr. Ed F. Cook of Macon was elected.

Rev. R. H. Barnett of Florida, resigned, and his son, R. Ira Barnett of Lakeland, Fla., was elected as his successor.

The Board elected C. F. Johnson of Lake Wales, Fla., to succeed John R. Taylor of Largo, Fla., whose term expired.

Dr. C. C. Jarrell of Atlanta was elected to succeed the late Dr. G. M. Eakes of Augusta.

The Alumnae to the Rescue!

Since April, when the appeal for help went out to the Alumnae from Wesleyan, $4,714.75 has been given to the college from the Loyalty Fund and from Alumnae Club benefits, with an additional $541.67 paid on pledges making a total of $5,266.42.

Individual gifts to the Loyalty Fund total $2,742.50, from 365 alumnae, making the average gift from each person $7.51.

Gifts to Wesleyan from alumnae clubs amounted to $1,972.25.

To the class of 1918 go the honors for the largest amount contributed to date—$172.00. Five other classes have given over $100: 1888, $167.50; 1908, $130.00; 1891, $122.00; 1928, $107.00; and 1883, $106. The classes of 1886 and 1890 very nearly reached the $100 mark with $98.25 and $97.00 respectively. Three classes have totals in the 80's, 1913 with $89.00; 1884 with $83.50 and 1931 with $83.50.

The class of 1928 boasts of the largest number of contributors, 18. Following this are 1886 with 15; 1913, 1888 and 1919 with 12 each; 1908 with 11; 1878, 1918, 1906, and 1891, with 10 each, and 1884, 1889, and 1905 with 9 each.

The class of 1878, with fifteen living members, has the largest percentage of givers, 66½ per cent. To this class, too, is credited the only In Memoriam gift, in memory of Mary Redding. Annie (Grey) Brunner's check, with a letter expressing her love and loyalty to Wesleyan came shortly before her death in June.

The class of 1883, with Dorothy (Blount) Lamar as secretary, has the largest average gift per member. Three members of this class contributed $106.00.

This report includes only those contributions up to July first, when the magazine goes to press; an additional report and list of contributors will appear in the next magazine. The date when Wesleyan's interest payment is due is August first, so we have another month in which to swell the Fund. If your name is not on the list below, will you not make every effort to send your contribution for your Alma Mater? Wesleyan will fully appreciate your check, whatever the amount, knowing that you will give your best gift in this year of great need.

Recent News of the Clubs

ATLANTA CLUB

The final meeting of the year in Atlanta was held in May with Dr. D. R. Anderson, Alleen (Poer) Hinton, and Jennie Loyall as guests of honor. This meeting emphasized the Loyalty Fund, and was most enthusiastically attended. At this time the Loving Cup for the group doing the most outstanding work for the year was awarded to Group III, Ruth (Rolston) Johnson, class of '14, chairman.

BAINBRIDGE

The Bainbridge Club has recently given to Wesleyan a handsome antique mirror as a memorial to Frances Ben (Jackson) Fleming of the class of 1894.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Birmingham, Ala., Club, which was organized one and one-half years ago with 18 members now has 33 members. The club meets twice a year, and recently had a meeting of unusual interest because of the presence of Dr. Dice R. Anderson. This meeting was held at the home of Annie (McCalla) Perdue, with a full attendance to greet the president.

COLUMBUS

The Columbus Club sponsored a benefit recital by Mr. and Mrs. Maerz of Wesleyan Conservatory in May, and sent a check for $75 to Wesleyan.

In April, their regular meeting was in the form of a "Thrift Party," each member bringing a dollar which she had earned, with a verse stating how it was earned.

New officers of the club are: Martha (Farrar) Nicholson, president, Estelle (Jessup) Dillard, vice-president, Frances Callahan, recording secretary, Minnie (Smith) Zeigler, corresponding secretary, and Nettie Byrd Page, publicity chairman.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Annette White is the new president of the recently organized Jacksonville, Fla., club, and Susie (Brown) Breen is vice-president.

LAGRANGE

The LaGrange Club elected new officers at its April meeting at the home of Margaret (Atkinson) Clark. They are: president, Margaret (Atkinson) Clark; secretary, Winnie (Power) Groover; treasurer, Lucile (Flournoy) Truitt.

MACON

The Macon Club sponsored a recital by Mr. Joseph Maerz in May, clearing $300.00. From this benefit, and from the Beauty Shop, owned by the Macon Wesleyan Club, the sum of $1600 was added to the Emergency Fund this year.

ORLANDO, FLA.

The Orlando, Fla. Club held its first meeting at the home of Lucile (Burnett) Bazemore, who was elected president. Madge (Rayle) Slaughter was elected secretary and treasurer.

SAVANNAH

The Savannah Club has new officers, elected in March. They are: president, Reba Bridger, vice-president, Mrs. King Dixon, Jr.; secretary, Maidee Meeks; treasurer, Hazel (Hester) Bailey.

TAMPA, FLA.

The Tampa Club was organized this spring, with Minnie (Edwards) Akerman as president, Ora Mizell as secretary and treasurer, and Flora (Carter) Turner as chairman of secondary school relations.
